BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (January 25, 2012) —Mazzei Injector Company has announced the addition of Paul Overbeck as its new Vice President of Sales and Marketing and the appointment of Geoffrey Whynot as its new Chief Operating and Financial Officer.

Paul Overbeck brings vast experience in water and wastewater process technologies to Mazzei. Paul joined Mazzei on January 16, 2012 after serving as the Executive Director of both the International Ozone Association (IOA) and the International Ultraviolet Association (IUVA). Formerly, Paul was directly involved in the development of Mazzei's GDT™ Process as President of GDT Corporation and was Chief Operating Officer of Osmonics (now a part of GE Power & Water), among other senior positions.

Geoffrey Whynot joined Mazzei in 2010 as its Chief Financial Officer and now will serve in the dual capacity as Mazzei's Chief Operating and Financial Officer. Geoffrey has extensive finance and accounting background as Chief Financial Officer in a variety of industries, including manufacturing, technology, and communication companies both locally and nationally.

Angelo Mazzei, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Mazzei, noted that "Paul Overbeck is very familiar with our company because of his former association with GDT. His background and experience will help continue our outstanding growth in the municipal and industrial water and wastewater industries as well as the agricultural and other markets.

"Geoff Whynot's executive management experience in a variety of industries is invaluable to us," said Mr. Mazzei. "His background in strategic planning and analysis, finance, systems development and proven ability to increase operating profits, gives us strong operational leadership."
